

Words of Thanks

I know that I am stubborn, Lord,
And selfish, I sure can be.
But I want to express my thankfulness,
For the life you've given me.

Some blessings aren't so obvious,
Even fade through passing years.
But you continue Lord, to bless my soul,
Relieving my doubts and fears.

I'm proud to proclaim your holy name,
As my Lord, Jesus, you're mine!
With courage I can face tomorrow,
And I know all will be fine.

I read your word, taking it in,
My sins and faults in view.
Again I'm humbled by your grace,
Your love, and forgiveness too.

May I be found, my precious Lord,
On solid ground, but fully free.
May I be a light to those I meet,
So your glory and peace, they'll see.

I pray to speak, using only your words,
Please remove me, out of sight.
May each heart feel your Holy Spirit,
Feeling warmth from your perfect light.

Though I try with all I have,
For my flesh to take no glory.
You understand my humanness,
Yet still allow me to tell Your story.

My words of thanks, although sincere
Seem so trite compared to You.
But these words come from my heart,
Full of praise for all you do.
